Book Review

By Verna Conner

Having lived in Charlotte County for only 12 of my 76 years, I am afraid I did not appreciate its rich history until recently.

The history of this county, entitled "Charlotte County, Rich Indeed", has been given to the Appomattox County Library by Mrs. Elizabeth Jennings and her late husband, Carrol Jennings, of Red House.

It has been my privilege to read this book and I heartily recommend it to the members of the Appomattox Historical Society or any others who are interested in compiling a history of our county. Several people have told me that they already own a copy.

Some of the highlights of the book, or rather some things that were of interest to me were such as the following:

1. Patrick Henry's son, William Wirt Henry was a graduate of Cub Creek Academy and entered the University of Virginia from there.

2. Charles Dickens visited America in 1842 and his descriptions of the railroads were similar to the ones described in Charlotte County at that time.

3. Plank Roads were used for five years but were found to wear out too soon and were abandoned.

W. T. Pugh and A. G. Jeffress were sent to buy salt during the Civil War and finally were able to get 8000 bushels for $8000.

5. Hancock's Tavern at Red House is now the home of Mrs. P. G. Reynolds. Part of the tavern was remodeled into the Frank Jones home.

6. Madisonville was named for Henry Madison. It was called Chickentown at one time since fighting cocks were raised there at Harvey's Tavern. This is now the home of William DeFord. Other prominent land owners were the Pughs and the Marshalls. During a meeting at a Methodist church there was a spirited discussion as to what to name the church. Finally W. T. Pugh said, "All who favor the name of Centenary, stand on the lumber pile" Most of them did and that is the name it goes by today. It was my home church and Mrs. Eula Jennings Pugh was my Sunday School teacher. She was a wonderful lady and was the mother of the late Dr. William Pugh. Carrol Jennings was a double first cousin of Mrs. Pugh.

7. One of the oldest communities in the upper part of Charlotte County is that of Red House. It was also called Wheeler's Springs since Wheeler's Ordinary was located on the healthful Sulphur Springs near where Concord church now stands.

There are other places and things too numerous to mention and all of historic interest.

One thing I failed to mention was the evolvement of the different denominations from the Episcopal Church, which was the recognized church of the Colony of Virginia.

All of this good reading is waiting for you at your Appomattox County Library.

Some of these comments are direct quotes from the book and others my own.

Remove Mildrew Ventilation the Key to Preventing Mildew

BY
Lonnette M. Chilton
Extension Agent

Damp weather increases the chances of the growth of mildew. The molds which cause mildew are always present in the air, but moisture is necessary for it to grow. They flourish especially in areas like cellers, crawl spaces, clothes closets on on such materials as cotton, linen, rayon, silk, wool, leather, wood and paper. The growth of mildew can ruin clothing, upholstery, leather goods and even wood. Mildew will also leave a musty odor.

Let the sunshine in and prevent mildew. Ventilation is the key to removing excess moisture. It absorbs excess moisture when the air outside is drier than the air inside. If the area is very damp, turn on the heat for a short time, then open doors and windows to let moist air out. Burning an electric light in a closet will help to dry this area.

Basements, closets, dresser drawers, any place where mildew is likely to grow, should be kept as clean as possible. An ounce of soap or detergent can be a pound of cure, keeping away the soil which supplies the food on which mildew starts growing.

What if mildew has already appeared in your home? Remove the spots as soon as you discover them. If there is mildew on household fabrics or clothing, immediately brush off the mold outside so mildew spores do not scatter in your home. For washables, launder with soap or detergent and chlorine bleach if safe for fabric. Otherwise, soak the item in an oxygen bleach, then wash. Take non-washables to the dry cleaner and be sure to identify the stain for the dry cleaners' information.

Treat mattresses and upholstered articles differently because eventually mildew can penetrate deeply in the item. Start by taking the mildewed item outside and remove loose mold from outer coverings by brushing with a broom.

Run a vaccum cleaner, using correct attachment, over the surface of the article to draw out more of the mold. Remember, mold spores are going into the vaccum cleaner, so dispose of bag or sweepings outside to avoid scattering mold spores.

An electric heater or fan can be used if the item is still damp. If mildew remains, sponge lightly with a solution of detergent and warm water. If pre-testing indicates that the fabric is colorfast, use a dilute solution of water and household bleach (one teaspoon to a quart of cool water) applying with a swab directly on mildew stain. Avoid getting too much water on the fabric.

This process may not completely remove mildew from rugs and carpets. However, the stain can be lightened by careful shampooing. Sponge mildewed area with thick detergent suds or a rug shampoo. Remove the suds by wiping with a cloth dampened in clear water. Let area dry.

Remember, prompt action can prevent serious mildew damage. In most cases sunshine, fresh air, and soap or detergent will send the mold on its way.

The Texas Grill

By Harry D. Ferguson

When downtown, hungry and want to eat,
Pause for a moment and you will notice
The TEXAS Grill off of Church Street.
With service and food of the best
Read the menu that will give the rest.

A waitress will be with you in a short while,
Taking your order with a big smile.
Then you will notice when paying your bill,
That you have just visited the real Texas Grill.

Yes, it is the best of food and service hard to beat,
This is the Texas Grill off of Church Street.
So the next time you are in our little town,
Visit the Texas Grill where a home atmosphere is always found,
The manager's name is Louise,
Believe me you will be pleased.

Junior FHA Presented Fashion Show

For the program of their October meeting, the Appomattox Junior Chapter Future Homemakers of America presented a Fall Fashion Show. Thirteen eighth grade members modeled several beautiful outfits courtesy of THE CLOTHESLINE. Mr. Jack Evans, proprietor of the local clothing shop, served as master of ceremonies. The students modeled to popular music and some showed off their dancing talents, adding entertainment to the show, which the members really enjoyed. Models were Kim Hudson, Charlotte Moore, Brenda Wright, Vivian Seay, Rhonda Weakley, Rita Shavonne Marshall, Lisa Pannell, Diann Harvey, Rosa Harvey, Kim Shupe, Margretta Flood, Donnie Scruggs and Sandra Watkins.

MRS. ALVIS' 4 - H CLUB

Mrs. Alvis' 4-H Club met on Tuesday, October 16th, 1979 at 11:00 a.m. The President, Kim Fuller, called the meeting to order. Karen Gilliam led us in the Pledge to the American Flag and Beth Marston led us in the 4-H Pledge. Our recreation leaders led us in singing "Duke of York" and "4-H Spirit." We then played four-corners. Mr. Sweet and Mrs. Chilton gave us our project books and presented a program of slides of last year's Share-the-Fun. The meeting was then adjourned.

Foster Parents Needed For Disturbed Teenagers

Therapeutic foster care for disturbed teenagers will soon be available in this area. The Crossroads Mental Health Services in Farmville are recruiting foster parents to provide help and support to teens facing crises. The search for responsive homes for teens is centered in the seven county area which includes Buckingham, Cumberland, Charlotte, Prince Edward, Lunnenberg, Amelia, and Nottoway counties.

Training for Foster Parents, selected for this new program will be provided by a mental health professional team. Following twenty hours of training, foster parents will be paid to be part of the program while providing supportive care for an adolescent. The professional team will provide continuing help and advice to the foster parents.

Foster parents will receive an income as well as child support funds. They will be provided with opportunities to increase their skills and income as they acquire experience.

Judith Halpern, Therapeutic Foster Care Coordinator, is recruiting foster parents who have demonstrated an interest in, and concern for teens. She is looking for people who have had experience in leading teen groups or teaching. Experience with teen groups such as 4H, Scouts, Church work, Big Brothers, or other similar teen activities will be helpful.

Foster parents who live near the teenager's family will allow the teen to keep in touch with that family and still attend his or her regular high school.

Area homemakers will now have an opportunity to improve their skills and earn money, while, at the same time offering a needed service to the community and to a specific young person.

Those who are interested and want more information may call Mrs. Halpern at Farmville's Crossroads Mental Health Center, 392-3187, collect.

Students To Exhibit Compositions

The original compositions of written music composed by Shawn Womack, Chuck Womack and Lawane Watkins have been chosen as the only three national winners to be on display during American Black History week on a National, State and local level. They are students of Mrs. J. Franklin Vaughan.

Quality of composition, sensitivity, and interpretation of style and meaning were the basics in their music that were deciding factors in their being chosen for this honor.

TOP PLEDGERS - The three persons getting top pledges, thus raising the most money for the fight against cancer as Individuals, in the Annual Bike-A-Thon sponsored by the Appomattox County Unit, American Cancer Society were, left to right, Jason Justis, third place; Jessica Stanley, first place; and Russell Franklin, second place. Congratulations to these fine youngsters for their efforts in raising money for the American Cancer Society and for completing the ten-mile ride. All three received trophies presented them by Mrs. Ray Noble, president, Appomattox County Unit, ACS.
